5 Aims of the programme

Throughout the programme of study, the emphasis is founded on the application of theoretical knowledge to business scenarios and problems where an operational solution is sought. In order to achieve this outcome, the aims of the programmes are:

1. To enable students to study a major-subject programme with closely related pathways and focus on particular aspects of a broad subject area in which they have prior knowledge or experience through previous study or employment and understand how the boundaries of new knowledge are expanded through research.
2. To enable students to develop an in-depth knowledge of a new subject or field of study and acquire a critical awareness of current issues and developments in the subject.
3. To develop and broaden the students in a range of techniques and systematic procedures that are required when conducting academic research linked to the subject area of business and management.
4. To encourage critical skills, a knowledge of professional responsibility, integrity and ethics together with the ability to reflect on personal progress as a learner and undertake independent study.
5. To enable and promote students in the development of a research proposal within an area of individual interest, and subsequently undertake an extended piece of research that includes a critical review of existing literature or other scholarly outputs that makes up a significant proportion of the programme's assessments, and may be more specialised in an area of employment or practice related to a particular profession.
6. To equip students with a range of techniques and methods applicable to professional activities and skill possession as a means of enhancing future employment prospects through the demonstration of originality and creativity in making sound judgements in the absence of complete data.
7. To support effective communication, the exercise of initiative, self-direction and autonomy

6 Distinctive features of the programme

The MBA programmes provide the foundations to achieve future CEO potential. The emphasis is founded on the application of theoretical skills to business scenarios and problems. They offer opportunities for students to analyse contemporary business situations, reflecting on organisational procedures and efficiencies resulting in operational solutions. The programme has been designed to draw upon The Institute of Directors Competency Framework which incorporates distinctive areas of knowledge, skills and mind-set traits which contribute to effective performance at a senior level within an organisation. The content, delivery and assessment develop the individual profile of the learner, enabling greater confidence and marketability as a professional. Students will also have membership to the Business Graduates Association (BGA) which the North Wales Business school have accreditation with.

The MBA suite of programmes provide specialisation opportunities to students who wish further their learning with a focus on Marketing, HRM, Finance, Entrepreneurship, Project Management, Healthcare, Data Analytics or Hospitality and Tourism providing greater flexibility for individual student aspirations. The specialised programmes each offer 2 related modules, drawing on bodies of knowledge, which reflect the context within which an organisation is required to trade. The outcome is students with a rounded business outlook with insights into corporate governance, environmental concerns, marketing, and HRM perspectives to facilitate critical reflective practice.

1. The MBA Programmes use a modular delivery pattern, which encompasses a framework of six 20 credit modules depending on the subject route before moving on to the core Research Methods and Dissertation module.
2. They develop the individual profile of the student and incorporate several instances where the student is able to analyse contemporary business situations to provide judgements and solutions which reflect organisational procedures.
3. The programmes have been designed to draw upon The Institute of Directors Competency Framework which incorporates distinctive areas of knowledge, skills and mind-set traits which contribute to effective performance at a senior level within an organisation.
4. There is a mix of traditional academic business Master's modules consisting of Strategy, Finance, Marketing and HRM which continue to be the foundation for this type of programme. The programme routes offer other modules, drawing on a wide range of bodies of knowledge, which reflect the context within which an organisation is required to trade. The outcome is a rounded business outlook with insights into corporate governance, environmental concerns, marketing, and HRM perspectives within a framework of effective and critical reflective practice
5. The inclusion of the Marketing route is curated and designed for inquisitive graduates who wish to develop both the fundamental and applied marketing theories and applications that will help them succeed as marketing directors or executives. The overarching teaching and learning strategy which encompasses current business issues together with issues arising within the students' workplaces, if, and where appropriate. This ensures the three-fold framework of skills, mind-set and knowledge are oriented towards this particular body of knowledge throughout the duration of the taught element of the programme for students electing to take this route. When progressing to the dissertation route there would be a clear expectation for the student's research questions to focus on a topic that would benefit from research into Marketing.
6. Similarly, the HRM route is of increasing relevance where people are the foundation of a vibrant world economy and requires a mind-set that is supported by an understanding of HRM practices where transferable business knowledge and key management skills are important. During the generic taught modules students will be encouraged and supported to bring HRM issues into classroom debate as a precursor to including and emphasising current issues in their assignments. The specific HRM modules explore in depth concepts such as the significance of reward management on employee productivity and the importance of appropriate resource and talent management strategies to improve business performance. This provides students with the knowledge to engage and suggest appropriate strategies and action on a range of contemporary issues in the workplace. When reaching the dissertation stage, again there would be a clear expectation that HRM students would base their dissertations on a research topic that is of international relevance.

7. MBA Finance is aimed at professionals building a career within finance, accounting and corporate social responsibility roles. This innovative programme is also for highly motivated achieving graduates with the relevant experience looking to become financial leaders in their field. Students will be encouraged to adopt and understand the necessary skills to identify and assess key financial concepts and use financial and modelling tools to solve complex business problems. In addition, they will be able to select and apply relevant insightful corporate valuation methods and assess financial objectives and performance. Consequently, this course prepares candidates for such roles and whereby candidates can enhance their analytical skills in international finance, economics and investment management.
8. The MBA Project Management provides an opportunity to learn both the theoretical fundamentals of project management as well as develop the critical skills required for entry into a project management career. The journey to becoming an effective project management starts with the acquisition of the right tools and technologies to support decision making and ensure timely delivery of project objectives. The MBA in Project Management has been designed to reflect on the principles and methodologies of the leading professional project management bodies. The programme is designed to facilitate the development of technical competence in areas including risk management, monitoring and control of projects, procurement as well as a core understanding of operations management, big data management and the ability to model and simulate complex problems which can plague project delivery. This pathway is well suited if you'd like to become the next leading project manager and are ambitious to succeed within the business environment.
9. MBA Health Management is intended for clinical leadership and healthcare management professionals in middle and higher management roles. It will support students who are aiming to develop their understanding and application of management and leadership in the healthcare sector. Further students will be able to identify and analyse how healthcare policies are designed and implemented, and how healthcare systems can be evaluated and compared. Healthcare leaders now need skills in human and financial resources management, leadership, strategic planning, and organisational design as well as an ability to manage complex change. Through the specialised healthcare modules, you will cover topics to help you enhance your capacity to analyse and understand the complex nature of healthcare and how it is delivered. You will explore issues that have a significant impact on organisations by working with others and building on the experience of those around you. These will put you in a strong position to advance your career in healthcare management.
10. MBA Entrepreneurship is open to business professional who wish to prepare themselves for a wide range of career opportunities, such as; launching new business ventures, developing start-ups and companies, and managers of innovation in larger companies. Further, this course aims to provide students with the knowledge to understand innovation methods, techniques and strategy at the individual and organisational level. Students will be equipped to identify and evaluate analytical techniques to determine the best use of entrepreneurial assets. This course is designed for professionals who aspire to enhance their entrepreneurial, creative and leadership skills and subsequent career progression.

11. MBA Hospitality and Tourism

MBA Hospitality and Tourism is intended for business professionals or students who wish to widen their career within the hospitality and tourism sector. It will support students who wish to expand their knowledge and management experience within hospitality and tourism and are looking to discover global issues and trends. Students will be able to discover critical trends and contemporary issues such as sustainability in hospitality in order to identify potential issues and solutions. Furthermore they will use this knowledge to develop innovative digital solutions to aid real life business problems in the hospitality and tourism world.

12. MBA Big Data Analytics

The MBA in Big Data Analytics is intended for business professionals or students who wish to use cutting edge technologies to turn the data into valuable knowledge. Modern digital technologies enable business and organisations to gather enormous amount of data thus helping businesses and organisations to make better, informed decisions based on facts, statistical numbers and trends. Many organisations are opening up their doors to data science and big data technologies to unleash the power of data thus increasing the value of a data scientist who is the expert to extract actionable insights out of gigabytes of data.

10 Learning and teaching strategy

How you will learn:

- Blended learning utilising the Active Learning Framework
- Face to face taught sessions
- Facilitated discussion
- Contributing a point of view and sustaining an argument
- Challenging
- Preparing material and presenting a topic to peers
- Independent study – reading and research
- Interpretation
- Completion of assessments Assignment feedback

The learning and teaching strategy of the programmes is based on the acquisition of new or modified knowledge, behaviours, skills, and values which lead to the empowerment of learners with the confidence to participate, critically and creatively, in the study of their subject area. This is supported by drawing on emergent business issues to enable students to experience, at first hand, the subject material in a manner which is closely related to business and management practices.

Taught sessions

Delivery of teaching of taught modules will be a mixture of formal and informal approaches including lectures, tutorials, group debates, and experiential learning which will be integrated and supported with the use of technological developments to provide additional flexibility, variety and access to a wider range of resources and materials supporting the Active Learning Framework from the university. Academic theory will be presented to support application to practice. Drawing further on inclusivity, the lecture debates encourage student reflection. Furthermore, group discussion provides a forum where learning is encouraged by drawing on three sources, namely theoretical, experiential and example; resulting in co-production of learning, with the potential for synthesis, which is enhanced by considering the perspectives of others.

Guidance in the planning of independent study and plans for future work will underpin tutorial sessions to establish expectations and to support the active, independent learner who takes clear responsibility for their own learning, development and performance.

Contact hours for the programme will be through formal lectures and tutorials of approximately 3 hours per module per week.

Learning and teaching undergoes a change in style at the dissertation stage. Individual specialist supervision is provided to support the student through the individual chapters which make up the submission and work within the confines of the research design and question.

How you will be assessed:

You will be assessed through a range of contemporary methods such as essays, reports, strategy plans, portfolios, reflections, Vlogs, posters, and presentations which aim to create confident learners when they move into the workplace and be applicable to the specialism routes.

Advice, guidance, and feedback from formative and summative assessment will be provided as a mechanism to acquire and develop learning skills and understand sound academic practice, using, wherever possible, the cross programme virtual learning environment.

Active Learning Framework

Wrexham Glyndwr's Active Learning Framework (ALF) making extensive use of the pedagogies implemented during the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic and encouraging continuous innovative teaching methods, with a focus on improved and enhanced student experience, through the use of available technology. As the programme is intended for blended delivery, E Learning is central with the flexibility which is embedded into the programmes utilising technology throughout the delivery. This enables material to be available for students to access at convenient times and re-visit material independently as part of their independent studies and for revision purposes.

Students will be encouraged to participate in extra curricula events when relevant guest speakers and specialists are invited to share best practice. Networking opportunities and collaborative openings provide periodic enhanced learning routes. Periodically guest speakers contribute to specific modular delivery, however this is entirely dependent upon availability and, should this distinctive opportunity arise, it takes place at relatively short notice during teaching weeks. Recorded material is also used to replace live guest speakers and provide insights into business systems and practice.

11 The Wrexham Glyndwr Graduate

At Glyndŵr University we aim to help students develop and enhance key employability skills and capabilities during their study. There are three key areas with different attributes, attitudes and skillsets and the aim is to help students have the opportunity to enhance and develop skills such as resilience, adaptability, confidence, team working, emotional intelligence and communication, creativity and acting ethically and sustainably. Programmes are designed to enable students to develop and enhance these skills via module content, module learning outcomes and assessment opportunities. Each module will help provide different opportunities for developing and enhancing these capabilities, referred to as the Glyndŵr Graduate Framework.

The Careers team are available to provide information, advice and guidance and access to resources for potential students, current students and graduates. WGUConnect provides students with access to an online directory of vacancies.

The Careers team can support students with employability and interview skills such as use of the STAR (Situation, Task, Action, Result) technique that many recruiters use to gather relevant information about a specific capability that the job requires.

12 Work based/placement learning statement

There will be no work-based learning module within the programmes however students are encouraged to use their current or previous work experience to reflect on.

13 Welsh medium provision

The programmes will be delivered through the medium of English. Students are entitled to submit assessments in the medium of Welsh.

14 Assessment strategy

The assessment schedule of the programme considers the dual needs of assessment for learning and assessment of learning. The strategy is to provide a sequence and variety of assessment tasks to reflect the modular learning outcomes which contribute towards the achievement of the award.

Assessments are written in a manner which incorporates subject specific theory and content together with consideration of professional practice and educational scholarship based on current scenarios, where applicable.

Each assessment pack includes the standard Masters level marking criteria as a foundation for consistency and provided clarity with regard to the subsequent academic judgements.

The Assessment Strategy is based on commentary provided with the UK Quality Code for Higher education that: Assessment and feedback practices are informed by reflection, consideration of professional practice, and subject-specific and educational scholarship to develop assessment activities which are closely connected with real-world situations or tasks.

Criteria for assessment marking are included with each assessment document to clearly articulate and promote consistency at each level and a shared understanding of the basis on which academic judgements are made.

A variety of assessment styles and tasks will be utilised throughout the programme to incorporate a range of learning styles and business problems requiring elements of analysis, diagnosis and the presentation of a solution.

Feedback provision will be in accordance with current policies and practices in place throughout the Institution to support ongoing progression and development, this may be in electronic format. Up to date details are provided in the annual Programme Handbook.

All assessments are subject to inclusion in current quality practices which include second marking of a satisfactory sample and external examiner scrutiny.
